CITY OF READING MANAGING DIRECTOR RESIGNS

Carl E. Geffken, the City of Reading's Managing Director, announced his resignation last evening in a letter he presented to Mayor Vaughn Spencer. "Carl's done great work for the City of Reading, and I hate to lose him," Mayor Spencer said today. "We'll start the search immediately for a replacement, and we wish Carl the best of luck in his future endeavors," he added. "Although I greatly enjoy working for the City of Reading, and with all of you, an opportunity has arisen that I could not easily turn down," Geffken stated in a letter to City Hall Staff. Geffken's last day will be March 15th. Geffken was hired as Finance Director in April, 2009 and then was named interim Managing Director in March, 2010. He was approved by City Council to the permanent position of Managing Director on January 20th, 2011.
